

II. Mandatory Academic Advising, Academic Disqualification, Probation and Grievances

It is the policy of the University of North Dakota School of Law that all students will achieve and at all times maintain a level of academic performance sufficient to permit the award of the degree of Juris Doctor.

A. Mandatory Academic Advising

1. Any student who (a) at the end of the fall or spring semesters of the first year has not achieved a cumulative grade point average of 2.67, or (b) has received a grade of D or less in any first-year class, is required to make an appointment with the Director of Academic Success and Bar Passage for academic advising.
2. As part of the mandatory academic advising, the Director of Academic Success and Bar Passage may require the student to complete tasks designed to address legal study and exam taking skills or address other issues hindering the student's academic performance. Any student failing to comply with all of the requirements and conditions established by the Director of Academic Success and Bar Passage will not be permitted to sit for final exams.
