

EDITOR'S NOTE

The North Dakota Law Review symposium entitled Corporate Governance and Shareholder Rights in a Time of Financial Crisis: How the North Dakota Publicly Traded Corporations Act Changes the Landscape was originally scheduled to occur in the spring of 2009. Flooding in the Red River Valley and the subsequent rescheduling of the symposium event rendered the author of the following article, Chancellor William B. Chandler, III, unable to attend. The following article contains the remarks Chancellor Chandler intended to deliver at the symposium event. The Law Review is grateful for his contribution to this issue.